LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Journal Articles are Inappropriate for Special Group Interests

Michael Amory is absolutely right—the furtherance of political correctness and the agenda of the National Organization for Women and so-called feminism have no place in scientific journals ("Against Special Interest Ideologies" [Letter to the Editor], April 1993 AJOT, p. 369). If every political or special interest group infused its published papers with its own values, the result would be a journal that is a schizophrenic propaganda tool rather than a credible scientific publication.

Occupational therapy has always had an identity problem; most Americans have no idea of what it is or what occupational therapists do. Therefore, the American Occupational Therapy Association and AJOT should join in defining occupational therapy, not as one more possible arena for social engineering, but as the essential component of health care that can help persons with disabilities to reach or regain productive, self-satisfying lives.

Margaret Beagle, OTR/L
Sun City West, AZ

Correction

In the article Issues in Assessment of Psychosocial Components of Function (March 1993 AJOT, pp. 211–216), the following reference is no longer published by Slack:

Therapy Skill Builders is currently in the process of revising the original copy, which will be available in Fall 1993. For more information, contact Therapy Skill Builders, 3830 E. Bellevue, PO Box 42050, Tucson, AZ 85733.

The American Journal of Occupational Therapy welcomes letters to the editor. If you have a comment about or reaction to something that has appeared in the journal or about an issue that affects us or the profession, let us know your views. Type the letter double spaced and forward it to Elaine Voeltear, Editor.

Coming in September:

- Survey of transportation services for children with disabilities
- Effect of OT intervention on mothers of children with cerebral palsy
- Depersonalization of patients
- Reliability of the worker role interview

Turn to AJOT for the latest information on occupational therapy treatment modalities, aids and equipment, legal and social issues, education, and research.